DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-13 are pending. The Amendment filed 1/21/03, Paper No. 10, amended claims 1, 3, 4, 6, and 11-13, and amended the specification.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to the 35 USC 102 and 103 rejections over claims 1-13 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Applicant's amendment filed 1/21/03, is sufficient to overcome the 35 USC 112 rejections and the objection to the specification in the previous Office Action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

(i) The phrase "0.01% to about 1.0% of C10 to C16 mono, -di and -tri acyl sugar esters" in claim 1 (lines 7-8) is new and was not recited in the original disclosure.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Art Unit: 1617

Claim 13 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

(i) The phrase "left on the skin" in claim 13 is vague and indefinite, as it is confusing. Are not all cosmetic compositions for skin care left on the skin? The limitation of "left on the skin" is confusing.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shana (WO 94/03150).

Shana is directed to compositions intended for washing the human body (abstract) comprising applying the composition to the skin and hair. Taught is a composition comprising an oily components, 1-50% non-ionic sugar based surfactant, and 0.001-2% water soluble cationic polymer, see pg. 9. Alkylpolyglycosides of the formula RO-(G)_n, wherein R is C5-C20, and G is glucose, xylose, lactose, fructose, mannose and derivatives thereof, are taught as sugar based surfactants, see pg. 5. The compositions can additionally comprise a polyol, preferably glycerol (see page 8, lines 30-32). Exemplified is a composition comprising alkyl polysaccharide 600, 10% glycerol and 5% guar hydroxy propyl tri-methyl ammonium chloride, see the examples in Table 1 at page 13. The compositions in Table 1 do not contain an anionic, zwitterionic or amphoteric surfactant. The reference lacks an exemplification of the instant invention wherein the sugar ester (the alkyl polysaccharide) comprising 0.01-1% of the composition.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to exemplify a composition of Shana wherein the alkyl polysaccharide comprises 1% of the composition because Shana teaches that the non-ionic sugar based surfactant (the alkyl polysaccharide) can comprise 1% of the composition and because it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233.

Claims 10-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shana as applied to claims 1-9 above, and further in view of The Handbook of Cosmetic Science and Technology.

Shana is applied as discussed above. The reference lacks anionic surfactants.

The Handbook of Cosmetic Science and Technology teaches that anionic surfactants produce a desirable combination of rich foam and excellent mildness and that they are also extraordinarily good hydrotropes and are remarkably compatible with a wide range of other surfactants, including some cationic conditioning agents. See page 222.

Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to add anionic surfactants to the composition of Shana et al. because of the expectation of achieving a composition with a rich foam and excellent mildness.

While the Handbook of Cosmetic Science and Technology is silent regarding its ratio with cationic surfactant, it is respectfully pointed out that it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
